To Whom It May Concern:

Paulo Mendes has been providing Portuguese (for Brazil) translation services to us in the specialized area of Medicine/Pharmacology for the past year. He is a practicing Medical Doctor now doing full-time translation.

Our standard translation process always includes an editing step in which a senior translator reviews another translator's work. We have therefore had multiple occasions in which Paulo's work has been reviewed by other professionals, and the reviews have always come back with excellent comments. He has been approved as one of our best medical translators in the following language combinations and fields:

- English into Portuguese (Brazil): all types of medical materials, including heavy-duty technical documentation for clinical trials, instructions for use and user manuals.
- Portuguese into English: requires only light editing by a native English speaker – Adverse Event Reports, Informed Consent Forms and other clinical trial documentation.
- Spanish into English: requires only light editing by a native English speaker – Adverse Event Reports, Informed Consent Forms and other clinical trial documentation.

He is a member of the American Translators' Association. As a translator he is professional, reliable and he often delivers ahead of time. He is fully proficient with Trados CAT software.

I understand that Paulo has also recently passed the DALF C2 examination in French, however we have not yet had an opportunity to call upon his services in that language.

I would highly recommend Paulo Mendes's translation services to anyone seeking a high-quality professional who delivers fast.

Sincerely,
